

The Annual meeting of the Eurosurveillance Editorial Team was held in Athens

The Annual meeting of the Eurosurveillance Editorial Team and Editorial Board was held in Athens on October 5 and 6, following an invitation by the Chairman of the Hellenic Center for Diseases Control and Prevention President (H.C.D.C.P.), Prof. Theofilos Rosenberg, towards the ECDC director Dr Andrea Ammon.

Prof. Rosenberg welcomed the Editor-in-Chief of Eurosurveillance, Dr Ines Steffens, on October 4 at the Headquarters of the Hellenic Center for Disease Control and Prevention in Athens. Dr Steffens informed the scientific personnel about the online open access Journal, the scope of which is epidemiology, surveillance, prevention and control of communicable diseases.

Furthermore, the New Eurosurveillance website, launched on September 25, was described in her presentation. Scientists can register, subscribe and add in their Profile an alert to receive the weekly table of contents (TOC).

The Annual meeting of the Eurosurveillance Editorial Team and Editorial Board, consisting of representatives of Member States of the European Union, was held on Thursday 5 and on Friday 6 of October. Prof. Theofilos Rosenberg delivered a welcome speech, on behalf of the Board of Directors of H.C.D.C.P.. Additionally, Dr Takis Panagiotopoulos, Professor at the National School of Public Health, and Scientific Advisor of H.C.D.C.P., presented the surveillance system that has been implemented by H.C.D.C.P. in migrant/refugee camps since May 2016, demonstrating that no major public health issues have emerged in Greece as a result of the migration surge.